PRESS RELEASE

Strongly mobilisation for the Youth Festival of Acadia 2013

St John's, Newfoundland , November 4th, 2013 – Franco-Jeunes de Terre-Neuve et du Labrador (FJTNL) is proud to announced that the young people strongly mobilized to participate at the Youth Festival of Acadia 2013. Not less than 120 participants joined, from four Atlantic Provinces, Quebec and Maine.

Franco-Jeunes is pulling out all the stops to prepare the festival, and looks forward to being able to welcome young francophones and Acadians from November 8 to 11, at École Sainte-Anne in Mainland, on the west coast of Newfoundland.

The program of activities is finished and promise big moments. The festival will have the local color, from meals to activities, it is regional speakers who work to make discover the Newfoundland and Labrador culture. Will be present, among others, Michael Laney, who will transmit his knowledge of painting, Bernard Félix who will introduce the art of accordion to the youth, and also Mary Barry who will share her experience of the stage.

*"The Youth Festival of Acadia 2013 will mark an unforgettable experience for all his participants. A busy schedule of the cultural and regional activities of the west coast will underline the remarkable culture of the province "*said Joshua Hudson , president of FJTNL .

This event is made possible through partnerships with the Franco-Jeunes and the youth offices of the Atlantic Provinces. Conseil jeunesse provincial de la Nouvelle-Écosse, Fédération des jeunes francophone du Nouveau Brunswick, Jeunesse acadienne of Prince Edward Island. As well, the support of the Société Nationale de l'Acadie, the financial support of Canadian Heritage and the provinces of Newfoundland and Labrador, Government of Quebec, and Marine Atlantic.
